Peace of Mind Before Major Dental Work

Being quoted for major dental treatment can feel overwhelming - especially when the costs are significant and you are not entirely sure whether the proposed plan is the best option for you. If you have been quoted for extensive dental work elsewhere and want reassurance before committing, Smile Solutions offers comprehensive second opinion consultations.

Why a Specialist Second Opinion Matters

Many dental practices offer second opinions, but there is an important distinction. At Smile Solutions, your case is assessed by the relevant registered specialist - not a general dentist offering an opinion on specialist-level work. With 25+ registered specialists across every dental discipline under one roof, patients have access to prosthodontists, orthodontists, oral surgeons, periodontists, endodontists, and paediatric dentists who can evaluate your treatment plan with the depth of training and experience that specialist registration requires.

This matters because specialist treatment planning often differs significantly from a general dentist's approach. A prosthodontist may see options for saving teeth that a general plan would extract. An orthodontist may identify a less invasive path to alignment. Having the right specialist review your case can change the entire trajectory of your treatment.

When to Seek a Second Opinion

A second opinion is particularly valuable when you have been quoted for:

- Porcelain veneers - especially large cases where preparation approach and ceramic quality vary enormously between providers
- Dental implant treatment plans - where the number of implants, staging, and surgical approach can differ between clinicians
- Orthodontic treatment - where options ranging from traditional braces to clear aligners each have trade-offs that a specialist orthodontist can properly assess
- Retreatment of failed dental work - crowns, veneers, or implants that have not met expectations
- Complex cases involving multiple disciplines - where coordinated care across specialties may offer better outcomes than a single-practitioner approach

Corrective and Retreatment Cases

Smile Solutions sees a significant number of retreatment and corrective cases from across the dental industry. Patients come to the practice after experiencing unsatisfactory outcomes elsewhere - whether that involves poorly fitting veneers, failing implants, or orthodontic results that did not meet expectations. The multi-specialist team is experienced at assessing what went wrong and developing a plan to achieve the result the patient originally wanted. ## ## How It Works

Booking a second opinion consultation is straightforward. Call **13 13 96** and let the team know you would like a second opinion on existing treatment. You will be matched with the appropriate specialist for your case. Bring any treatment plans, x-rays, or quotes you have received from other providers - these help the specialist understand what has been proposed and offer an informed alternative assessment.
