Smile Solutions Studio 32 – Melbourne's in-house master ceramist

Your smile is personal, so the people crafting it should be too. At Smile Solutions, every porcelain restoration is made entirely by hand, on-site, by one of Australia's most experienced master ceramists. That person is Greg Karabasis, Master Ceramist and Director of Studio 32 — Smile Solutions' own ceramic laboratory at 230 Collins Street, Melbourne.

Greg has 32 years of hands-on experience and has personally handcrafted over 43,654 veneers and crowns. He's also the former Vice President of the Victorian Crown and Bridge Society, a role that reflects both his standing in the profession and his long-term commitment to the craft.

His work goes beyond technique. Together with Dr Kia Pajouhesh, Greg co-developed Australia's first Same Day Porcelain Veneers, an innovation that won the Australian Business Awards – Business Innovation (2024). It's the kind of patient-focused advancement you'd expect from a team that takes clinical outcomes seriously.

Personalised craftsmanship — your smile, your way

Studio 32 is built around a genuinely personalised approach. Greg specialises in the Emax Press and Cream multi-layering technique, which produces a natural translucency that mirrors the subtle complexity of real teeth. No two smiles are the same, and that's exactly how Greg works — each restoration is individually characterised, so you'll never end up with something that looks generic or out of place.

Before any work begins, you'll have the chance to meet Greg in person to talk through your smile design. Ask questions, share what you're hoping to achieve, and get a clear picture of the process — because this is a collaboration, not just a clinical procedure.

All ceramic work. All on-site. All yours.

Every piece of ceramic work at Smile Solutions is handcrafted on-site by Studio 32. Nothing is outsourced, and no work is ever sent offshore. What you're getting is a fully bespoke, Melbourne-made restoration, created with care and precision at one of Melbourne CBD's most iconic heritage addresses.

That in-house approach is a big part of why Smile Solutions patients keep coming back. When the ceramist, the dentist, and the patient are all working together under the same roof, the results speak for themselves.
