About Yen

Yen Lam joined the Smile Solutions team with a Bachelor of Oral Health from the University of Melbourne, which she completed in 2011. Since then, she's built more than ten years of hands-on experience working in both public and private dental clinics across Melbourne. This mix of settings has given her a practical, well-rounded perspective on patient care.

Orthodontics became a particular interest for Yen early in her career. She's spent considerable time working alongside orthodontists and general dentists, which means she's developed a good eye for spotting alignment issues and understanding how different treatments fit together. At Smile Solutions, she focuses on hygiene and preventive care, tailoring her approach to what each patient actually needs rather than following a one-size-fits-all routine.

Yen's appointments typically include routine cleanings, scaling and root planing when needed, and practical advice on home care techniques. She explains what she's doing and why, which tends to make people feel more comfortable and better informed about their own oral health. Her technique is gentle, and she pays close attention to the details that matter for long-term results.

A Holistic Approach to Your Oral Health

When she's not at the practice, Yen goes to live music gigs, spends time outdoors, and picks up new creative hobbies. She sees oral health as connected to overall wellbeing, not something separate. Your mouth affects how you eat, speak, and feel about yourself, so taking care of it properly makes a real difference beyond just having clean teeth.

Yen keeps up with professional development programs and new research in dental hygiene and therapy. Her registration with the Dental Board of Australia (DEN0002448084) confirms she meets the required standards for clinical practice. She uses evidence-based techniques, which means the treatments she recommends are backed by current research rather than outdated methods.

What You Can Expect from Your Visit

When you see Yen at Smile Solutions, she'll take time to understand what's going on with your oral health and what you're hoping to achieve. She answers questions thoroughly and develops treatment plans that fit with your schedule and priorities. Whether you're coming in for a standard clean, need help improving your daily oral hygiene routine, or have more complex concerns, she provides straightforward guidance and experienced care.
