About Dr Brie McLaren

Dr Brie McLaren brings her Master of Dentistry from Griffith University to Smile Solutions, where she's built a practice around preventive and restorative care. She treats dentistry as a partnership with her patients, making sure you understand what's happening at each step and why it matters for your long-term oral health.

If dental visits make you nervous, you'll appreciate how Dr Brie works. She explains procedures in plain language, answers your questions without rushing, and gives you space to make decisions that feel right for you. Her patients often mention feeling like they're talking to a friend who happens to be really good at dentistry.

Dr Brie treats everyone from young children to seniors, adapting her approach to what each person needs. She's the kind of dentist who remembers details about your life and treats you the way she'd want her own family treated.

When she's not at the practice, you'll find her experimenting with new recipes, keeping active, or planning her next trip somewhere new.

Special Interests

Preventive dentistry: Dr Brie would rather help you avoid problems than fix them later. She works with you to create a prevention plan that fits your life—regular check-ups, professional cleanings, and practical advice about caring for your teeth at home. This approach saves you time, money, and discomfort down the road.

Restorative treatments: Whether you need a simple filling or something more involved, Dr Brie focuses on results that look natural and last. She keeps up with new materials and techniques, choosing what works best for each situation rather than taking a one-size-fits-all approach.

Patient-centred, family-style care: Families appreciate having one dentist who understands everyone's needs. Dr Brie sees children, adults, and seniors, building relationships that often span years. She creates an environment where people actually feel comfortable, which isn't something you can say about every dental practice.

Professional Philosophy

Dr Brie believes good dental care shouldn't feel intimidating or confusing. She takes time to understand what you're hoping to achieve and what concerns you might have. At Smile Solutions, she's part of a team that shares this approach—evidence-based treatment delivered in a way that respects your time and intelligence.

Whether you're coming in for a routine check-up, dealing with a specific problem, or planning more extensive work, Dr Brie makes sure you know what to expect. She's thorough without being overbearing, and she genuinely cares about getting things right.
