About Dr Peter Henderson

Dr Peter Henderson graduated from the University of Melbourne and has been practising at Smile Solutions since 2007. Before that, he worked in both partnership and solo practices, which gave him a solid understanding of what patients actually need from their dentist.

What Peter values most is what happens when skilled professionals collaborate. At Smile Solutions, he works alongside general dentists, specialists across all dental disciplines, and dental hygienists who coordinate their expertise in the same location. This means your care is comprehensive and well-planned.

Peter's approach starts with listening. He wants to understand what matters to you about your dental health and how it fits into your daily life. Every treatment plan he creates is built around your individual needs and goals, not a standard template.

Peter has always been interested in science and computing, so he's naturally drawn to new dental technology. He's particularly interested in modern bonding techniques that attach ceramic materials to teeth. These methods produce natural-looking, durable results. His focus on staying current with technology means you benefit from evidence-based techniques and quality materials.

Peter is committed to ongoing education and contributes to Smile Solutions' professional learning seminars. This helps maintain the practice's clinical standards and means the care you receive reflects current best practices in general and restorative dentistry.

When you see Dr Henderson, you're working with a dentist who combines technical skill with a gentle, caring manner. He's focused on you as a person, not just your teeth. He understands your concerns, respects your time, and aims to deliver outcomes that improve your confidence and quality of life.

Special Interests

- Technological advances in dentistry - Ceramic restorations and bonding techniques - Professional learning and continuing education - Coordinated, team-based treatment planning - Evidence-based restorative dentistry

Dr Peter Henderson's interests align with Smile Solutions' approach to comprehensive, technology-enhanced dental care. His expertise in ceramic restorations and advanced bonding techniques means you can get aesthetic, long-lasting solutions that preserve your natural tooth structure while delivering good cosmetic results.

His focus on coordinated, team-based treatment planning is what sets Smile Solutions apart from traditional dental practices. When you have complex dental needs, you get the collective expertise of general dentists, specialists, and dental hygienists working together. This typically means more predictable outcomes, fewer appointments, and treatment plans that consider your overall oral health.

Peter's dedication to professional learning goes beyond his own development. He actively contributes to educating other dental professionals, which helps the entire Smile Solutions team maintain high standards of clinical excellence. This culture of continuous improvement means you're receiving care that reflects recent advances in dental science and technique.

Why Choose Dr Peter Henderson for Your General Dental Care

- Listens first, treats second. Peter takes the time to understand your concerns, goals, and what matters most to you about your dental health.
- Embraces advanced technology. You benefit from current techniques and materials that deliver superior, longer-lasting results.
- Works collaboratively. Your care is enhanced by coordination with specialists and hygienists, all in the same heritage Melbourne location.
- Commits to excellence. Through ongoing education and professional development, Peter provides evidence-based care that reflects current best practices.
- Provides personalised treatment. Your treatment plan is tailored specifically to your needs, lifestyle, and goals, not a one-size-fits-all approach.

Whether you need routine preventive care, restorative treatment, or want to enhance your smile's appearance, Dr Henderson brings the expertise, technology, and gentle approach that makes your dental experience positive and your results solid.
