When Your Case Needs a Specialist - How Smile Solutions and CSSC Work Together
You visit Smile Solutions for a routine check-up, a clean, or a cosmetic consultation. Your dentist examines your teeth, reviews your X-rays, and in most cases, everything is managed right there in the chair. But sometimes your dentist identifies something that requires a different level of expertise - a clinical situation that falls outside the scope of general dentistry and into the domain of a registered dental specialist.
This is where the relationship between Smile Solutions and the Collins Street Specialist Centre (CSSC) makes a genuine difference to your care.
Understanding the Difference Between a Dentist and a Specialist
In Australia, a registered dental specialist has completed a minimum of three additional years of full-time university training after their dental degree - a specialist qualification in a specific discipline such as orthodontics, oral surgery, endodontics, periodontics, prosthodontics, or paediatric dentistry. This additional training is not optional or cosmetic. It represents a fundamentally different level of clinical knowledge, surgical skill, and diagnostic capability for complex cases.
At Smile Solutions, over 25 registered dental specialists work alongside the general and cosmetic dentistry team. These specialists are based at Collins Street Specialist Centre within the same Manchester Unity Building at 220 Collins Street, Melbourne CBD. The arrangement is deliberate: when a case crosses the threshold from general to specialist care, the transition is seamless.
The Patient Journey - From General Care to Specialist Management
Here is how the process typically works:
Step 1: Your Dentist Identifies a Specialist Need
During your regular appointment, your Smile Solutions dentist may identify one of several situations that warrant specialist involvement:
- A wisdom tooth that is impacted against your jaw bone or adjacent teeth
- A root canal that has failed or a tooth with complex root anatomy requiring specialist endodontic treatment
- Gum recession or bone loss that goes beyond what a standard clean can address
- A bite problem or jaw alignment issue that needs specialist orthodontic planning
- A tooth or multiple teeth that are beyond simple restoration and require prosthodontic rehabilitation
- A child who is highly anxious or has complex dental needs requiring a paediatric dental specialist
Step 2: Internal Referral Within the Same System
Your dentist places an internal referral through the shared CareStack clinical management system. This referral includes your full treatment history, X-rays, CBCT scans from Collins Street Imaging on Level 9, clinical photographs, and any relevant notes. Nothing is lost in translation. The specialist receives a complete clinical picture before your appointment.
Step 3: Specialist Consultation at CSSC
You attend your specialist appointment at the same address - 220 Collins Street, Melbourne CBD. There is no unfamiliar reception, no filling out the same forms again, no explaining your dental history from scratch. The specialist already has your records and can focus entirely on the clinical problem at hand.

Step 4: Coordinated Treatment Planning

For cases that involve more than one specialist discipline - for example, a patient who needs periodontal treatment before implant surgery, followed by prosthetic restoration - the CSSC team coordinates a unified treatment plan. Multiple specialists contribute to a single, sequenced plan rather than providing disconnected opinions. This peer review model is central to how the Smile Solutions group manages complex cases.

Step 5: Return to Your Regular Dentist

Once your specialist treatment is complete, your care returns to your Smile Solutions general dentist for ongoing maintenance and monitoring. The specialist's treatment notes, outcomes, and recommendations are all in CareStack, so your regular dentist is fully informed about what was done and what to watch for going forward.

Real Examples of How This Works

The Failing Root Canal

A patient attends Smile Solutions with persistent pain in a previously root-canal-treated tooth. The general dentist takes imaging, identifies a possible missed canal or crack, and refers internally to the CSSC endodontic specialists. The endodontist performs microsurgical retreatment using an operating microscope, resolves the issue, and the patient returns to their regular dentist for a permanent restoration. Total time from identification to resolution: often under two weeks.

The Complex Orthodontic Case

A patient wants straighter teeth but has a skeletal jaw discrepancy that clear aligners alone cannot correct. The Smile Solutions dentist identifies the complexity and refers to the CSSC orthodontic specialist, who works with the oral surgery team to plan a combined orthodontic-surgical approach. Smile Solutions holds Blue Diamond Invisalign status - the highest provider level - with over 9,000 cases completed across the group. Cases that need specialist orthodontic management are directed to CSSC where the complexity warrants it.

The Gum Disease Patient

A patient presents for a routine check-up and is found to have significant bone loss around several teeth. The general dentist refers to a CSSC periodontist who provides specialist assessment, deep scaling under local anaesthesia, and a long-term periodontal maintenance plan. The general dentist and periodontist then share ongoing management of the patient, each handling their area of expertise.

Why This Model Matters

In most dental practices, when your dentist identifies something beyond their scope, you're handed a printed referral letter and told to book an appointment with a specialist somewhere else in the city. Your records may or may not arrive before your appointment. The specialist has never met your dentist. Your dentist never hears directly from the specialist. The patient is the messenger between two practices that don't communicate.

The Smile Solutions and CSSC model eliminates this fragmentation entirely. With over 80 clinicians, 25 specialists, and more than 300,000 patients treated across 33 years of practice, this integrated approach is not experimental - it is how Smile Solutions has operated since its founding.
